New Delhi,

In a bid to protect the environment, Enviro – the facilities management wing of Vatika Group organized a Pollution free Green Dusshera at Club lawns, Independent floors, Sector 82, Vatika India Next. A virtual image of Ravana was created using laser lights and the Ravana dahan was done with the help of laser lights and sound. It was a wonderful sight and a unique attempt to save the environment from pollution. Iti Das, Resident, Vatika INXT, said, "The pollution-free Dussehra organized at Vatika INXT is a big step towards the concept of sustainable festivities. There are a lot of eco-friendly activities like the laser, light & sound show, dance performances & loads of fun filled activities. For us to go on the other side of the city by crossing the toll every time isn't really possible, thankfully all the festivals are celebrated in our society itself by Enviro." A. K .Singh, President, Enviro, said, " We at enviro are always geared up to celebrate festivals with our residents in full gusto The pollution-free Dussehra at Vatika INXT is one step forward towards sustainable festivities proving that our fun need not always be at the cost of our environment. Apart from bringing everyone together to celebrate the festivities, these events also act as an amazing platform for cultural exchange." People were dressed in ethnic attire and participated in huge number to celebrate the festival with a lot of excitement. People of all age group were seen enjoying the fun-filled activities. The event consisted of various dance performances, laser, light and dance show. Sonia Judeja, Resident, Vatika City, said, "Dussehra as a festival has great significance & what better way to celebrate it than with an artistic Dussehra carnival organized by enviro. The whole condominium looks like a paradise with twinkling lights if all hues shining bright. There's a festive vibes everywhere with ravana effigies lined up, shopping stalls, delicious mouth-watering snacks & other fun filled activities. It's always fun to indulge in the festivities with events like these."
