New Delhi ,

Students are opting for higher education at a foreign destination enthusiastically, offering a variety of degree courses at Under  Graduate Level. There is a sharp rise in the demand for career in media, arts, content writing, civil services and internet research, Humanities is one of the most favorable streams among students in India as well as in abroad too. "Humanities can also help the students to think critically, creatively, and help us reason well so that we can gain insight into a variety of subjects and topics. Good exposure, State-of-Art Infrastructure and world recognition of the degrees earned by these foreign universities give a head start to the career of any student. Active learning through various activities like class participation, exchange of dialogues, case studies and practical off and on campus experience through live projects make learning fun and more meaningful" said Mr. Reeturaj Goswami, Product Head, PRATHAM International Education. Admission to any college abroad for most of the undergraduate courses is through SAT. Pratham provides Classroom SAT coaching to its students in its allocated centers inclusive of In-house faculty, Psychologist, SAT Real Time Mock Test and many more. It also providing the wide spread guidance on choice of universities, deadlines, profile building, university application, visa processing and even financial planning to study and get into the world's best universities, making it an easy cake walk for its students and parents. "Studying Humanities abroad helps student with better and clear perception to interpret things. The world subject rankings table does not offer a separate subject option for humanities and lists entries under Liberal arts, Fine arts and vocational courses which are coming up really fast. There are some of the universities in abroad which are well known for their courses in Humanities in terms of learning and knowledge transferring manner to their students. However, enhanced skills which students acquire and sharpen by studying humanities can be transferred across many careers such as politics, teaching and journalism” added Mr. Goswami A Bachelor degree program in Humanities provides a study of the principles of Economics, fundamentals of global economics, Social and cultural awareness, Political awareness and policies and languages. It will help you to appreciate and find meaning in almost everything around. And when you will start interpreting meaning from whatever you see in the world, it will help to enhance your communication skills as well. The universities are well known leading universities serving courses across the arts and Humanities. These include anthropology, history, linguistics, literature, media arts and sciences, and music, etc.
